Description

Born for the steep Mediterranean waves.

Built to the rigorous standards of American fishermen to make it rigid and long-lasting, with structural spider that reinforces the hull and variable fiberglass laminate thicknesses.

Hand-layered vinylester and polyester resins were used for the lamination, while the blanket was designed "sandwich" to limit weight while maintaining strength.

The waterlines are the evolution of the legendary Tuccoli hulls, designed to tackle the dry and steep waves of the Mediterranean, with a deep V at the bow and a deadrise angle ideal for cruising speeds between 26-27 knots and 40 knots to ensure safety and maximum sailing comfort. Because you decide when to go out or when to come back, not the weather.

Driver's seat with a console one meter wide and 55 centimeters deep to ensure maximum comfort for the rider. The trampling is always free and never falls below 35 centimeters, to easily go around the boat without narrow, uncomfortable or unsafe passages where feet and joints collide. Cockpit surface is over four square meters to accommodate more people, T-top of 3 square meters to protect and shade the console and part of the cockpit. And at the bow, four square meters of sundeck for relaxation and sunbathing. Your personal padded and very comfortable beach.
