Description

The Pershing 92' is characterized by an even more slender and aggressive external profile, with taut lines that allow you to enlarge the internal volumes, giving ample breath in particular to the salon and the aft cockpit on the main deck. A model that fits perfectly into the new aesthetic course inaugurated with the famous P72' and successfully continued with the P64' and P80', characterized by a distinctly open personality, large volumes and total brightness for direct contact with the sea and which underlines the concept of family feeling. In the Pershing 92' all the stylistic features that have made the models of the fleet recognizable remain and evolve: the windows of the superstructure, the large windows on the walls, the large retractable door that divides the cockpit from the salon and of course the inimitable performance of each Pershing yacht.
