mainsail and genoa still in good condition

The designer Philippe Briand designed the Jouët 760 in 1982 for the Yachting France shipyard, proposing the open space solution with a central U-shaped saloon and double cabin at the stern, mostly unprecedented in small cabin cruisers. The result is a boat with large, well-arranged interiors, excellent for sailing in 2, but also capable of accommodating 4 people. With slender lines, a high but not bulky deckhouse, a comfortable cockpit with sloping backrests, tiller rudder with hanging external blade, it is capable of good performance especially in the stern, where it easily goes "surfing". The version with fixed keel fin holds the sea better in strong winds
