Description

Designed by Bruce Farr for the Bénéteau shipyard, the Océanis 461 is a solid and safe boat with an easy-to-manage sail plan, very spacious below deck and easy to move.

The Océanis 461 is a model that has been a great success, thanks to both external and internal comfort.

Bruce Farr has designed a hull that proves to be balanced under sail, where ease of handling and maneuvering is privileged; but which guarantees good performance even with the 60 hp engine.

The cockpit is spacious with a steering wheel and easy access to the aft swimming platform; The mainsail traveler is on the deckhouse where there is also a semicircular handrail to protect those who maneuver at the mast.

The layout has 4 cabins and two bathrooms, with a large saloon and a large galley on the side.
