chantier naval de biot Trireme 43

49 500 € ALL TAX INCLUDED

Description

The Trireme 43 Ketch central cockpit is a Bluewater sailboat that was designed by the architect François Charpentier, known for many quality regatta and cruising sailboats.

Steel built in 1981 by the Chantier Naval de Biot, France

Very popular with sailors wishing to make long voyages, cross the Atlantic or live on board. Robust construction designed for the high seas, good seaworthiness, spacious interior layout suitable for long sea travel.

It is not a mass-produced model that is produced in large numbers, which makes it quite rare on the market

French flag registered in Fort de France, French West Indies VAT and dock dues paid, available in Martinique
