paternity of the Dutch designer Van de Stadt.

Designed for coastal cruising and built in fiberglass, the Alpa 6.70 proves to be an excellent compromise between comfort and speed.
The hull with its slender shapes and the little wetted surface make it a boat capable of lively navigation, even with light winds and especially upwind.

The interiors have been elegantly designed and rationalized to offer the greatest possible usability, in relation to the limited space

The auxiliary engine is applied with a sliding support on the transom.

Staging and technical:

Teak deck.

Security equipment:

First aid kit, Safety equipment within 12 miles.
