Description

Beneteau 50, designed by Bruce Farr, was built in 2001 by the Beneteau shipyard, an emblematic long-distance cruising sailboat of the 2000s.

With its 15.50 meters in length, it combines elegance, comfort and performance. This 2001 model is particularly popular for long-distance cruising programs with the family.

Four cabins transformed into three cabins, its spacious interior offers excellent habitability with very nice finishes, a convivial saloon and a well-equipped long galley. This model is highly appreciated for its robustness, stability at sea, and ease of maneuvering, even with a small crew
