Description

Royal Cruiser 34 was one of Storebro's most successful models with 800 units built and cemented the already excellent reputation of the Swedish shipyard. The quality and good taste of the boat was much superior to others of similar size and layout, perhaps because it was built at the insistence of a particular customer in a sartorial and accurate way. Einar Runius was responsible for the design of the hull, the design was entrusted instead to Winfried H. Wilke, anticipating by fifteen years the modern times that attribute the roles of hull and interior designers to real archistars. Originally, the hull was built exclusively in mahogany, but from 1969 the fiberglass hull that we also find on this special small boat came into production. Alì Babà, re-engined in 1989 and refitted in the year 2022 is part of that "de Luxe" series with all the extra accessories that still make it today, a fast commuter of timeless charm and great livability: opening of the windows in the aft cabin, sink in the aft cabin, sliding window in the driver's seat, fan in the toilet room, improved freezer, L-sofa in salon, hardtop that can be opened above the driver's seat. If you meet her at sea, you don't forget her. Worth seeing.

2 On-Board Computer (Volvo Penta), Odometer (Simrad), Depth Sounder (Simrad), Plotter with GPS antenna (Simrad), VHF Radio (Marcucci Hurricane).
